

Miss Hocker Entertains at Luncheon.

Thursday morning from ten to one o'clock, at the beautiful home of her parents on Oklawaha avenue, Miss Alice Hocker entertained most delightfully at luncheon in honor of the returned school girls.

The house was artistically decorated with pond lilies, nasturtiums and roses.

The principal feature of the entertainment was the geographical contest. Every guest was presented with a card, each with a different sketch, that represented a river, city, state or mountain. These sketches were originated and drawn by the young hostesses, who bids fair to become a most talented artist. The cards were passed around and all were to guess them. Quite a number were fortunate enough to solve them all and cut for the prize—a lovely pocket-book and card case. Miss Clara Gray was the winner.

Other interesting, amusing and original games were played, and the morning passed all too rapidly.

Luncheon was served in the spacious dining room by Mrs. Hocker, Mrs. Burford and Mrs. Carney.

Miss Hocker's guests on this delightful occasion were Misses Mary and Rebecca Anderson, Marie Bullock, George Smith, Clara Gray, Ethel Robinson, Johnnie Liddon, Beatrice Stuchart, Florrie Condon, Allie Van Juhon, Pauline Sullivan, Mary Beardon, Hattie Maie Porter, Annie Davis, Violet Harris and Sara Harris.

Mr. Williams Entertains.

Last Friday evening Mr. David Sage Williams, Jr., entertained his young friends with a most delightful informal dance at the residence of his aunt, Mrs. Allen Munroe, at Onondago Hill, two miles southwest of town. The young people went out in the bus and wagonette, and were chaperoned by Mrs. Dan Morgan Smith.

The home of Mrs. Munroe is an ideal place for entertaining, and on this occasion, when its doors were thrown open to the young people, it was a scene of beauty.

Mr. Williams was assisted in receiving his guests by his sister, Miss Polly Williams.

Carl Weihe furnished the music, which he did most delightfully.

The evening was spent in pleasant conversation, promenades around the lovely grounds, in dancing and in other ways. There were about thirty young people present and all spent a most delightful evening. It was nearly two o'clock before the guests departed for Ocala.

Stevens—Brown.

Last Monday morning at eight o'clock Miss Cora J. Brown, of Alabama, and Mr. Henry Stevens, of High Springs, were quietly married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Geo. P. Sewell, in Jacksonville.

DOINGS AT FORT McCOY.

The Lester Mill to Be Moved to Silver Springs—Petition for Hard Road.

Mr. Lester, the millman at Gore's Landing, has become dissatisfied with the shipping facilities of that place, and will move his mill to Silver Spring, where he can ship lumber by the Seaboard Air Line. He says that the move will cost him $5,000, but will put him in position where he can ship several carloads per day, which is much cheaper than the old style of rafting down the Ocklawaha river, seventy-five miles and then seventy-five miles to Jacksonville. This move will necessitate the building of several miles of new railroad back to the timber.

F. Lang and Son will soon commence to rebuild and enlarge their warehouse, as the present building is far too small to accommodate their increasing business.

The picnic at Eureka last Saturday was a success in every particular. About one hundred persons were present.

Parramore Brothers, of Eureka, have opened a stock fancy groceries in connection with their drug department, and are building up a nice business.

A largely signed petition to the County Commissioners was circulated among the taxpayers of this place last week, asking that the hard road be extended from Silver Spring four miles north to the flat woods. This extension would be a great help to the people of Fort McCoy, Eureka, Orange Spring and Daisy. It is claimed that plenty of material is directly on the road to build it.

Owing to the incessant rains last week, the protracted meeting that was in progress here was closed.

BELLEVUE ITEMS.

The News-Letter Changes Hands—The Bellevue Workers Beautifying the Cemetery.

The Bellevue News-Letter passed into new hands this week, L. W. Baldwin having sold the paper and printing outfit to P. W. Green, the principal of the Bellevue schools. Professor Green hopes to be able to get out the first issue this week, though owing to the sickness of Professor Varn, Professor Green is filling his place in the Summer School of Systems and Methods at Ocala.

The Bellevue Workers have recently taken the cemetery in hand. Every man in the place was invited to come to the grounds on a given day, provided with all needed implements for a thorough cleaning up, and the Bellevue Workers saw to it that a bountiful lunch was set forth in the town hall for their refreshment at noon and night. A good day's work was done.

Mr. and Mrs. Folsom, the new Methodist minister and his wife, gave a lawn party at their residence opposite the church last Thursday night.

Death of Major S. F. Rou.

The death of the above named gentleman near Reddick last Friday at the advanced age of 80 years, deserves more than a passing notice.

He was so agreeable, so companionable, so full of spontaneous and effervescent wit, that it never occurred to any one that he was old or growing old.

If ever a man "grew old gracefully" it was Major Rou.

He was quick at repartee, a charming entertainer, always had in hand a fund of rich and original anecdotes, and his wit was never forced, but was always rich, sparkling, scintillating and as limpid as a running stream. Had he devoted his talents to literature he could easily have become as famous any of the brilliant wits of contemporaneous history.

Major Rou was a pioneer settler to this county, his friends were legion, and his memory will long endure.
